

Search Archives

MAINSTREAMING BIODIVERSITY INTO MINING TRAINING WORKSHOP

Posted by Administrator on Wednesday, 13 February 2013 in Grasslands News 2013

Print PDF Bookmark

Not to be missed: SANBI's Grasslands Programme (in partnership with the South African Mining and Biodiversity Forum and the Departments of Environmental Affairs and Mineral Resources) would like to invite you to a pre-launch training workshop on the Mining and Biodiversity Guidelines on 5 March 2013 in Johannesburg. The guidelines address issues of mainstreaming biodiversity into the mining sector. The training workshop will focus on the Mining and Biodiversity Guideline but will include an information session on the SANBI Wetland Offset Guideline.

The training workshop is aimed at participants from all sectors including mining companies, officials from DEA, DMR and DWA, consultants and NGOs. Attendance is free of charge. This is your opportunity to be part of a constructive interaction on issues of mining and biodiversity.

Click here for a detailed invitation, including the directions to the workshop. All enquiries should be directed to Patti Wckens at 083 448 2279 or Stephen Holness at 082 887 3735. Places are limited so remember to RSVP to Matome Makwela at mmakwela@chamberofmines.org.za by 25 February 2013.

Tags: Untagged

in Share

Twitter Tweet

0

f Like

Share

Sign Up to see what your friends like.

« SAPPI: SAMING GRASSLANDS

MAINSTREAMING BIODIVERSITY: SMOKE AND MIRRORS OR G... »

Powered by EasyBlog for Joomla!